A. As we are not able to identify in any clear fashion our purposes and would find it even more difficult to persuade him, it is important to ensure that our involvement with these plans in either direct assistance to his personal interests or in support to the project. In this respect, it is essential that we remain vigilant and provide support to his interests as much as possible, to prevent any potential interference or challenge to his plans.

B. It is possible to argue that his involvement in this project is in his best interest, and it is our responsibility to ensure that his interests are protected. On the other hand, we must ensure that our involvement is not seen as an exploitation of his situation.

C. We are deeply committed to the idea of a peaceful resolution, which represents a more realistic goal for both parties. Nothing would be more detrimental to a former ally who has shown a commitment to peace than inadvertently supporting a regime that is hostile to peace. In this regard, we must ensure that our actions are consistent with the principles of peace and reconciliation.

D. It is important to maintain our involvement in the project, while ensuring that we do not exert undue influence. We must also be mindful of the potential for manipulation and ensure that our actions are transparent.

E. Whenever possible, we will continue our efforts to gather as much information as possible so that we will be in a position to identify and address any potential dangers. In this regard, we must ensure that our actions are consistent with our commitment to peace and reconciliation.
