DECLASSIFIED
Nazi War Crimes Disclosure Act
PL105-246

By: 51# Date: 4/23/200

ATR POLCH CONFIDENTIAL	DO NOT TYPE IN THIS SPACE
FOREIGN SERVICE DESPATCH	662.8026/11-160 XR 635.84a
FROM: Amendassy TEL AVIV 253 0555. N THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE, WASHINGTON.	November 1, 1960 //
REFA	USUN-3. I 1860 M/A 1 M/0-1
For Only RECTURED FOTHER OF A SA-W OS.	A4 EUR-9 P-3 104
SUBJECT: Eichmann Trial: Ben-Gurion's Views	ARMYLY MANYLY AIR-6

The Embassy is forwarding a portion of an article on the trial of Eichmann which was written by E. A. Bayne and will soon be published by the American Universities field staff. The article is of interest primarily for the illumination, imperfect as it may be, of the basic motivations of Prima Minister Ben-Gurion, tion, imperfect as it may be, of the basic motivations of Prima Minister Ben-Gurion, tion, imperfect as it may be, of the basic motivations of Prima Minister Ben-Gurion, the author interviewed at Sde Boker. Mr. Bayne's account throws into railef whom the author interviewed at Sde Boker. Mr. Bayne's account throws into railef Ben-Gurion's identification with Jewish nationalism. The Eichmann trial is for Ben-Gurion another link in the chain to prove Jewish nationhood and to build a defense against ubiquitous antisemitism.

Ben-Gurion apparently did not speak with the author on the link between .

Nazism and Nasserism, but an Israeli official whom the author interviewed stated:

Nazism and Nasserism, but an Israeli official whom the author interviewed stated:

Nazism and Nasserism, but an Israeli official whom the author interviewed stated:

Nazism and Nasserism, but an Israeli official whom the author interviewed stated:

Nazism and Nasserism, but an Israeli official whom the author on the author interviewed stated:

Nazism and Nasserism, but an Israeli official whom the author on the author interviewed stated:

Nazism and Nasserism, but an Israeli official whom the author on the author interviewed stated:

Nazism and Nasserism, but an Israeli official whom the author interviewed stated:

Nazism and Nasserism, but an Israeli official whom the author on the link between .

Nazism and Nasserism, but an Israeli official whom the author interviewed stated:

Nazism and Nasserism, but an Israeli official whom the author interviewed stated:

Nazism and Nasserism, but an Israeli official whom the author interviewed stated:

Nazism and Nasserism, but an Israeli official whom the author interviewed stated:

Nazism and Nasserism, but an Israeli official whom the author interviewed stated:

Nazism and Nasserism, but an Israeli official whom the author interviewed stated:

Nazism and Nasserism, but an Israeli official whom the author interviewed stated:

Nazism and Nasserism, but an Israeli official whom the author interviewed stated:

Nazism and Nasserism, but an Israeli official whom the author interviewed stated:

Nazism and Nasserism, but an Israeli official whom the author interviewed stated:

Nazism and Nasserism and Nasserism and Nasis and N

In Despatch 824 of June 21, 1960 the Embassy quoted from a letter written by Ben-Gurion to Israel Galili in which the Prime Minister stated: "No doubt exists that there is in the service of dictators in neighboring countries dozens and hundreds of Nazis, German and Arab, who took part in the marder of Jews in that hundreds of Nazis, German and Arab, who took part in the marder of Jews in that period and are now plotting against the people of Israel in their own land. We period and public opinion in the world who these people plotting the destruction of Israel are the pupils of and who is helping them intentionally and unintentionally." In the street of the seat of hatred Thus not only does there appears to have been a simple transfer of the seat of hatred from Berlin to Cairo, but there appears to be an obsessive desire to prove a link from Berlin to Cairo, but there appears to be an obsessive desire to prove a link from Berlin to Cairo, but there appears to be an obsessive desire to prove a link from Berlin to Cairo, but there appears to be an obsessive desire to prove a link from Berlin to Cairo, but there appears to be an obsessive desire to prove a link from Berlin to Cairo, but there appears to be an obsessive desire to prove a link from Berlin to Cairo, but there appears to be an obsessive desire to prove a link from Berlin to Cairo, but there appears to be an obsessive desire to prove a link from Berlin to Cairo, but there appears to be an obsessive desire to prove a link from Berlin to Cairo, but there appears to be an obsessive desire to prove a link from Berlin to Cairo, but there appears to be an obsessive desire to prove a link from Berlin to Cairo, but there appears to be an obsessive desire to prove a link from Berlin to Cairo, but there appears to be an obsessive desire to prove a link from Berlin to Cairo, but there appears to be an obsessive desire to prove a link from Berlin to Cairo, but there are appears to be an obsessive desire to prove a link from Berlin to Cairo, but the Berlin to Cairo,

ANNIVERGES: 1h

ACTION COPY — DEPARTMENT OF STATE

The action office and the second of the second of

NAZI WAR CRIMES DISCLOSURE ACT

2000

CIA HAS NO OBJECTION TO DECLASSIFICATION AND/OR RELEASE OF CIA INFORMATION IN THIS DOCUMENT

DECLASSIFIED

Authority NND 36822

By NARA Date 2/9/05

CONFIDENTIAL (Classification)

Page 2 of
End. No 253
From Amendas sy TEL AVIV

Another interesting aspect of the article is the author's claim that there is less than national unanimity over the question whether Israel should try Fichmann. He bases this assertion on discussions with ordinary people as well as with jurists, who, however, have been overriden by Ben-Gurion's overwhelming determination to try Fichmannian Israel.

The article; was given to the Embassy in manuscript form by the author with—the understanding that it would be kept within Embassy confines until actual publication. Therefore the Embassy is placing an Official Use Only classification on the enclosure which may be changed to Unclassified after the article has appeared.

FOR THE AMBASSADOR:

Milliam Bruce Lockling First Secretary of Embassy

Inclosure:

Portion of an article entitled
HISTORY (A.D. 70-1948) ON TRIAL:
The Case of Adolf Eichmann, Executive for the Nazi's "Final Solution" of the Jews of Europe—Seen from Israel; By E.74.2Bayne (Official Use Only).

Copies to:

Arman & Beirut & Cairo & Haifa & Jerusalen

CONFIDENTIA

DECLASSIFIED

Authority NAD 36822

By NARA Date 2/9/05

OFFICIAL USE OMLY (Classification)

Page 1 of
End. No 1 253
Prom Ambridges 7 Tel. AVIV

Portion of an article entitled HISTORY (A.D. 70-1948) OH TRIAL:

The Case of Adolf Echann, Executive for the Nazi's "Tinal Solution" of the Jews of Europe—Seen from Israel, Ey E. A. Esyme

when we had settled down to talk, Ben Gurion deranded: "You think that we should not try Eichmann? You are a Jew? An American Jew?"

"I thought only an American Jew would question our right to try Eic man.

They confuse citizenship with nationality where a Gentile should not. You are being, unwittingly or not, an antisemite! You want to deny the Jews the rights of being, unwittingly or not, an antisemite! That nation has the right to try the nationality. Hitler was killing a nation. That nation has the right to try the man who carried out Hitler's orders!"

"But there are others involved. . . "

"Don't you see," he went on, "the world must be told this very fact. We are a nation. In Russia and Eastern Europe, we Jews never thought of ourselves as Russians, or Poles—always we were Jews with a deep sense of nationality."

And in this separateness, I thought, lay much of the root of Slevic antisemitism, just as the uncillingness of Israel to accept the divinity of Roman emperors had driven Titus to destroy the Temple and sack Jerusalen. In a secular world, the theological basis of Jewish cohesion, its non-conformism and seemingly eternal protestantism can be viewed as the narrowest nationalism, and not an ethical system based upon an individual's personal covenant with God. The fact that the Jew, religiously, built a "fence around the Toran" of legalisms representing the moral guides to deily life, a fence that was sometimes too high for others to climb, and too forbidding gave rise to suspicion and ultimately, oppression. Actually, the Christian concept of being a "chosen people" was no less profound than the Jewish, although it is shorn of its tribalism, based less upon femily ties than upon the individual's own striving for salvation. The social expression of these differences between Jewish and Gentile religious roots, resulting in the minority urban concentrations of Jewish colonies, enclosed within by rabbinical leadership, and without by suspicion and oppression in a never ending cycle, understandably emphasiced that sense of nationality-of tribalism-among Jens. To this must also be added the rural-urban tensions that marked the last two centuries in the Eastern countries of Europe, where the Jew was at the heart of the city.

It has been argued that the extraordinary contributions to art and other forms of civilization, and the great energy put forth in less noble aspects of life by Jews was a result of a compensating drive for the insecurity this kind of living produced. It might also be argued that it came from the confidence of living in a spiritual whole, living the law in a theocracy:

But this was Eastern Europe, where the industrial revolution came late and attempts at an open society still later. Germany was the border state,

OFFICIAL WE ONLY

DECLASSIFIED

Authority NID 36822

By NARA Date 2/9/05

OFFICIAL USE OULI (Clessification) Page 2 of

Encl. No 1 253

Desp. No 253

From Amembiasay The AVIV

modern and modernizing, but here antisemitism became the savage poison Hitler found necessary to use to give unity to Maxism. The Jew had assumed that in a modern society the age-old suspicion could be allayed, and he could safely—as Ben Gurion said—exchange citizenship for nationality. The grisly task of Michann was to drive home the lesson that for that time, in that country, the separateness of the Jew could not be forgotten. But what of America, a different kind of society, pluralistic and founded on principles of religious freedom and tolerance? Does not the assimilationist's argument hold?

"You think that America is different?" said the Prime Minister of Israel.

"Let me tell you a story. During the war—in 1940, I think it was—but before the United States entered the war, I went to New York to try to obtain help for the United States entered the war, I went to New York to try to obtain help for the United States entered the war, I went to New York to try to obtain help for the United States entered the war, I went to New York to try to obtain help for the United States entered the war, I went fighting the Nazis also. I talked with a prominent leader of American Jewry, and most highly respected man. 'Aren't you in favor of defeating the Nazis,' I arked him. 'Of course,' he said, 'Then you in favor of defeating the Nazis,' I arked him. 'We shouldn't,' he said, why aren't you campaigning for American participation?' 'We shouldn't,' he said,
'we Jews could not cryf or a war against Mitler here, the rest of America would then call it a Jewish war!' "

Ben Gurion's hand gently topped the desk at which he was sitting. "'Yet you believe that the defeat of Ritler is essential for America? And you are an American?' I asked. 'Yes, of course,' he replied. 'Then,' I said, 'you are putting your Jewishness before your Americanism.' You are a Jew first.' The man denied it, but he could not. It is the case for any of us. What do I have in common with the Yemenite—we are Jews, part of the same nation."

An American Gentile may have difficulty admitting the logic of the story, or he may take refuge in sociology and point out that civilization is always in transition and always in Hope.

"Look at it this way," the Prime Minister continued. "If some power—the Chinese perhaps—were to kill a third of the people in America, wouldn't you, as an American, want to try the men who did it?"

"That seems very hypothetical. . . I began. Actually, the ethical basis of war crimes trials has not been entirely clear to me, as it has not to many. I could not answer briefly, and said no more.

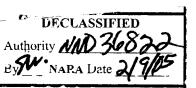

"Well, wouldn't you?" he persisted.

"I suppose that there are sufficient evidences of nationalism in America to expect that we would," I finally answered.

Well then, thy would you deny to the Jewish nation the same right of choice? Is it because you do not think of Jews as having the same rights as other people?

With another man, this could be ugly ground, but here it was not. This was the arch-fighter for Jewish dignity, in the right or wrong or the Heral tradition, operating within a frame of legality not all the world would recognize, and which not all of the nation for whom he spoke would accept. To a Gentile of the

OFFICIAL WEE CALLY.

OFFICIAL USE ONLY
(Classification)

Page 3 of

Encl. No 1

Desp. No 253

From Amenda assy Tel. AVI

majority, Ben Gurion might seem to be talking resurgent tribalism; to the political Zionist, nationalism. It was an ancient controversy, not only a Jewish affeir, beginning as Jews often measure, in 70 k.D. and reaching until 1943 and the founding of the de facto state of Israel.

The trial of Adolf Eichmenn may thus be seen as a trial of history to prove the point of Jewish nationhood—to make the distinction between the Israeli and the Jew—to build an accepted defense against the virulent entisemitism German Mazism was, and might be again elsewhere under other names. In such an epic exercise, Eichmann became a human symbol.

"It does not matter to me that happens to Eichmann," the Prime Minister said. "I don't care whether he lives or dies. It is unimportant when measured against our right to try him, and judge him as a nation."

Vengeance then, is not involved. Eichmann might live, unmartyred, and free enough to explate his own guilt privately before his own gods. The justice involved in the trial, for Ben Gurion, is a justice that the Jews of Diaspora had not been able to establish in 1,900 years.

The range of response to this rationalistic position of the Prime Minister may be wide: from distaste for an arrogant tribalism to sympathy for a brave minority. I was fortunate. Neither extreme would occur to me as I left the country to return to Rome. I had rather the conviction that the triel of Adolf Elchmann was an intensely human and complex affair. What it represented was neither a private Jewish affair, nor symbolic vengeance, nor totally a symbol of guilt for the Western majority of Gentiles.

As I was leaving Sde Boker, after a visit to its various outbuildings, I returned to Ben Gurion to say goodbye.

"You know," he said, "I reveal my own subjective bias. All human affairs-even science—are subjective. . "

The remark was in his image.

OFFICIAL USE CHY

DECLASSIFIED

Authority NAD 36822

By NARA Date 2/9/05