II. MAJOR PROGRAMS PLANNED FOR 1995

- Select entities deemed the highest risk using a risk assessment process that will be updated continuously throughout the year. The Plan will be updated during the year to include high risk areas that are noted as part of the on-going risk assessment process.
- New risk assessment techniques developed for individual audits will also be used to focus work on the most critical areas within each audit. In addition, we will continue to assess the audit approach and scope of audits through more effective planning and will incorporate techniques which will permit: efficient use of audit resources; increase the emphasis on evaluating the effectiveness and efficiency of operations to help identify profit improvement/cost containment opportunities for the Company; and maintain an appropriate level of audit coverage and quality of work.
- Provide appropriate staff time for special project work (balanced with regularly scheduled audit work) to accommodate internal requests for audit assistance.
- Expand the staff's EDP knowledge and skills, both as to EDP audits and use of computer audit techniques in the conduct of audit work. This will include some intensive training through seminars and audit assignments and development of additional PC application software and interface programs to access mainframe computers.
- Continue to develop and revise Audit Program Guides to capture the knowledge gained by the staff on recent audits and assure adequate scope and audit coverage.
- Provide for professional development of the audit staff through management and supervisory skills seminars, audit training programs, computer audit techniques, PC training, language courses, and the January and June Staff Meeting agenda topics.
- Internal Audit development of a comprehensive, automated scheduling, audit inventory, experience history, and report status computer system to be available on-line through LAN access.

III. CHALLENGES FOR 1995

- STAFFING:

Hiring highly qualified individuals in authorized positions and maintaining optimum staffing levels with the knowledge/skills needed to be effective in our environment remains a major challenge. This is a continuing challenge due largely to the extent of our travel (50% of 365 days) and the locations to which we travel. The need for personnel who are fluent in Spanish and/or other languages also continues to be a requirement for the majority of staff members.

- BUSINESS STRATEGIES:

Development of new business strategies (acquisitions, divestitures, reorganizations, modified contracts, etc.) presents a major challenge for the Audit Department in terms of:

- Staying abreast of the changes in strategy in order to assess the business risk and implementing a responsive audit plan;

- Providing control assistance and general business counsel to management before the fact to help minimize the incidence of unexpected financial issues or significant business risks.

- AUDIT COVERAGE:

Achieving the objective of auditing all high risk entities/areas during 1995 will require, in addition to maintaining an optimum staffing level of 23, the efficient/effective assignment of staff to audit jobs and the continued development of more effective tools and techniques to perform this work. This will include updating the computer audit techniques and experience of the staff and further integrating the EDP and financial audit functions. With further reduction in staff to 23 in 1995, (on the premise of the discontinuance of John Morrell) we must continue to be selective in responding to special request audits from senior management and providing assistance on "task force" or special project work throughout 1995.

ASSUMPTIONS:

- Staffing level will be 23 and at times may include additional personnel, such as associates from other CBII units, who are temporarily assigned for developmental purposes.
- Total merit increases granted will not exceed 4% of the 12/31/94 annualized salaries of our authorized complement.
- Travel will average approximately 50% for the staff, 25% for the Directors, and 15% for the Vice President (on a 365 day basis).
- Travel costs for 1995 will be at similar levels to those budgeted for 1994. Our travel policy regarding trips home remains the same.
- The cost of executive searches and employment agency fees are not included in the 1994 or 1995 Internal Audit Budgets. Costs to relocate new staff members will be borne by Corporate Office Services. Costs of developmental assignments (e.g., transfer of an associate from the tropics to Internal Audit) will be borne by the Audit Department; transfers to the tropics will be borne by the receiving location.
- Assumes MIS units will not directly charge for computer usage or in-house programming/system development time for requested application projects for 1995.

1994 AUDIT SCOPES

General approach and audit scope definitions

General approach

The general scope of our audit work will be such that we can express an opinion on the consolidated financial statements of Chiquita Brands International, Inc. and subsidiary companies for the year ended December 31, 1994. Our audit will be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and, accordingly, will include such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we consider necessary in the circumstances. In addition, we are required to report separately on the financial statements of certain subsidiaries. The scope of work to be performed at the units visited will be either:

- Full
- Statutory
- Limited
- Review
- High-level review

In addition, the financial statements of all units at which work is not performed as well as general office and consolidating entries will be reviewed at the respective corporate or group headquarters. If findings require, such reviews will be supplemented with inquiries and/or actual visits to the unit.

Definitions and descriptions of each scope level are presented below. A local audit planning memorandum is to be prepared and submitted to Ernst & Young-Cincinnati, for all units subject to full scope or statutory audit requirements, setting forth the procedures to be performed within the assigned scope for each significant audit area along with a detail of budgeted hours for each. These plans will be reviewed and approved by Ernst & Young-Cincinnati prior to commencement of significant audit work. The scope of the procedures selected for each unit is a function of the following factors:

- Materiality of the unit's financial statements, both with respect to dollar amounts and sensitivity, to the consolidated financial statements of Chiquita Brands International, Inc.
- Scope and results of the firm's work, as well as the internal audit work, in previous years (including consideration of our cycling approach) and the extent and nature of internal audit activity during the year ending December 31, 1994.
- Known or anticipated accounting and auditing problems.

1CHQ6-000585

CBI-V1-001-005379

- Requirements for separate financial statements.
- Requests by Chiquita Brands International, Inc. management.

Audit scope definitions

Full

A full scope audit will entail an audit of significant accounts in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards in the United States. The work performed would be sufficient, with certain minimal additional procedures, to enable us to form an opinion on the financial statements of a unit if such statements were required. Briefly, the audit steps involved will be a review, documentation and evaluation of internal control systems; sample testing and evaluation of transactions occurring in these systems; observation or test counting of inventories (including observation of fixed assets if the control of fixed assets is determined to be ineffective); independent confirmation of bank balances, investments, loan and accounts receivable balances; and audit of significant balance sheet and income and expense accounts.

Statutory

A statutory audit is similar to a full scope audit in that the audit will be performed in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards in the United States. However, the end product of a statutory audit usually will be certified financial statements prepared in accordance with either local or U.S. generally accepted accounting principles, as required. Therefore, in all statutory audits, the scope of the audit will be sufficient to permit the issuance of an opinion on the specific financial report required by the local statute, agreement, etc.

Limited

A limited scope audit will entail an audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards in the United States only of certain selected significant and/or sensitive balance sheet and/or income or expense accounts. Generally, this will include review, testing, and evaluation of the critical internal control systems. The extent of work and hours required will vary considerably and will depend upon the circumstances at each unit.

1CHQ6-000586

CBI-V1-001-005380

Review

A review is intended to accomplish a survey of the financial statements and supporting schedules of the unit which, when supplemented by discussions with management officials and a limited comparison of records, will provide information concerning the financial position and operations of the unit, without the performance of detailed tests of the records. Again, the extent of work and hours required will vary considerably and will depend upon the circumstances at each unit. A sample of the steps involved in a review include the following:

- Review (but not detailed testing) of the critical/sensitive internal control system or systems.
- Follow-up on status of problems identified and/or recommendations made in prior years as well as any significant comments contained in internal audit reports.
- Comparison of balance sheet and income statement to budgeted and to prior year results. Review and, where appropriate, perform limited testing of client analyses supporting critical account balances. Discussion of significant fluctuations and/or unusual items with management and accounting personnel.
- Review of the financial impact of current business conditions on the unit.
- Review of the propriety of the accounting principles of the unit and of the effect of any changes in the application of accounting principles from the prior year.
- Where applicable, review of company-prepared workpapers related to the most recent physical inventory and reconciliation of the inventory balances to the general ledger. Determination that the method of pricing inventory is consistent with the prior period and in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. Review of inventory turnover computations or other relevant data for indications of excessive or obsolete stock.
- Review of the year-end financial reporting package for completeness and reasonableness.

High-level review

A high-level review is similar to a review but less detailed. The procedures involved in a high-level review would typically include:

- Critical review of financial statements/key support schedules and discussions with management concerning any significant balance sheet and income statement fluctuations from the prior year.

THE "LEADING EDGE" PROGRAM
CHIQUITA BRANDS INTERNATIONAL INTERNAL AUDIT DEPARTMENT

This memo is in answer to the Audit Committee's October 27, 1994, request for additional background information on the "Leading Edge" program recently implemented in Internal Audit.

I. Overall Summary of the Leading Edge Program

In June 1993, Internal Audit introduced a new objective to become "Leading Edge" in all of our audit activities and in the administration of the department. We addressed this objective through a re-engineering of our audit organization, practices and procedures. We have directed major efforts toward accomplishing this objective.

A summary of the results and accomplishments of the program is as follows:

- A risk assessment process was developed and implemented in 1994. The new process assists in the selection of entities for audit identified to have the highest components of risk using a new risk assessment model developed by Internal Audit. The Audit Plan for 1995 was prepared using the risk assessment process and will be updated throughout the year to include high risk areas and entities that are identified as part of the on-going risk assessment process. This process has enabled us to accomplish more effective and focused audits with a concentrated effort on high risk oriented areas and processes. This in turn will allow for broader overall audit coverage of more auditable entities and lead to better utilization of the department's resources.
- We have evaluated every aspect of how we plan, conduct, and report on audit activities with the objective of streamlining the overall audit process. The new approach has been implemented on each audit assignment with the result being the delivery of more highly focused and more timely audit reports to management. Such reports continue to convey recommendations to address identified financial and control improvement opportunities and also incorporate improvement suggestions for the operational aspects of our businesses which are now more fully incorporated in the scope of our audits.
- We evaluated our organizational structure and established new departmental reporting relationships, job descriptions and competency models; we re-defined roles and responsibilities for each staff level and implemented a "broad banding" salary grade structure as a pilot program for the company. In addition, the training and management development aspects of the department have been improved, the staff performance evaluation process has been revised, and we have more clearly defined for the staff our engagement expectations for performance and promotion.

CBI-V1-001-005407

- Integrating financial auditing with personal computer and data processing capability has been emphasized and recently the PC hardware and software capabilities made available have been substantially updated to the latest technology. The results of implementing this strategy has been a more integrated audit approach for financial audits and now permits direct access capability to divisional financial information. This allows for a more sophisticated audit approach and increases our overall understanding of the financial and operational aspects of each division. Upgraded technology has also allowed for the streamlining and development of statistical tracking, scheduling, and reporting of audits.
- A "Vision Statement" was developed as the framework for what the Internal Audit Department wants to be, clarifies what we are trying to accomplish, and outlines the values of the organization and of the department. A "Mission Statement" was also developed which outlines the overall purpose of the Internal Audit Department, the functions performed by audit and the objectives of the department. We plan to use these strategic objectives as a foundation to enhance our value with our business units. Accomplishing the goals as set out in the Vision and Mission statements required upgrading not only how we plan and execute each project, but also required an upgrading of department personnel and raising the qualifications, competencies, and experience levels of the staff.

II. Areas Reviewed During the "Leading Edge" Process

We identified major areas of the audit process as outlined below that we believed should be evaluated and examined to determine if there was a more effective/efficient way to perform the functions and processes. The entire audit staff was divided into separate teams for each of these topics and each staff member participated in 4 teams.

1. Risk Assessment for Selecting Entities for Audit. A major program for 1994 was the implementation and use of a risk assessment process to assist in selecting entities with the highest risk to be included in the plan for audit. The factors considered in assessing risk include: financial impact; local business/operational/regulatory developments; concerns of senior management; quality of internal controls; changes or anticipated changes in systems or processes; quality of local management; results of last audit; external auditors audit plan/scope; and time since last major audit. The audit plans for 1994 and 1995 were based on this process using the risk assessment model developed; an assessment of each entity is continuously updated as audits are completed, and as additional or new information about entities becomes known. The department's management group also conducted a comprehensive risk assessment review of each major entity/function during our January and June 1994 manager meetings.

2. Risk Assessment for Identifying High Risk Areas to Audit at a Particular Location. Three risk factors are used to assess the high exposure areas of a particular entity or location that has been selected for audit:

- Financial risk/impact of the entity -- expressing each component of the financial statement as a percentage of total assets, total liabilities or total sales facilitates the identification of individually significant components.
- Business Risk Factors -- examining the impact of external factors that impact each entity including interest rates, inflation, exchange rate fluctuation, import/export controls, competition, etc.
- Control Risk Factors -- identifying elements of the organization that carry a high degree of control risk. This would also include events that could result in monetary losses, failure to meet organizational goals, etc. (e.g., unreconciled bank accounts, overextending advances to growers, etc.)

After assessing these risk factors, the scope of the audit is focused primarily on those components (e.g., inventory, accounts receivable, etc.) which have the greatest elements of risk or exposure. This will facilitate broader audit coverage by permitting audits at a larger number of entities by more efficient staff utilization.

3. Audit Planning Process. The audit planning process was revised to include risk assessment (outlined above), a more comprehensive planning checklist and more time scheduled for preparing for each audit, examination of the audit entity's critical success factors and devoting additional time to analyzing the business/financial statement information prior to beginning the fieldwork. One critical element included in the planning process is the emphasis on communications with senior management, other corporate office departments, and division management which will aid in identifying areas of concern or items with a high degree of risk. In addition, these discussions enhance our ability to incorporate operational/business issues into the scope of the audit; setting the scope also involves "tailoring" the audit approach/scope to the entity being audited to assure the most effective use of audit resources and to provide "value added" to the auditee. This has resulted in time savings and more efficient use of staff members.
4. EDP/Financial Audit Integration. The objective of our audit approach is to integrate the financial and EDP aspects of the audit. An EDP training program was developed and audit individuals have been trained in EDP audit concepts and techniques. Achieving this objective will require continual training due to the number of promotions/transfers of staff members to more responsible positions outside the audit department.

5. Computerized Audit Techniques. The evaluation included identifying the PC hardware and software and technical skills necessary to use the PC as a tool to streamline the audit process, assist in the financial statement evaluation of the business and to analyze and sample certain areas of audit (e.g., disbursements, sales/credits/ pricing by customer, etc.) The result of the evaluation was a significant upgrade to 486 portable PC's used in the field; upgrading and training of new software; and the ability to download data files from mainframe computers to PC's or transfer files/reports from PC to PC for use in the audit.
6. Reporting of Audits. The process of preparing audit reports for the auditee was examined as well as the timeliness of communicating the results to the auditee and senior management. Significant process improvements resulted and reports are now delivered to the auditee on a more timely basis.
7. Evaluation of Staff Performance. Several improvements resulted from examining this area.
 - Competency models and new job descriptions for each job level have been developed to identify skills, abilities and knowledge necessary to perform at that level.
 - Expectation levels of performance are tailored and communicated at the beginning of each assignment and performance is measured against such expectations.
 - The performance evaluation process and the document used to prepare the individual job performance appraisal has been streamlined; the process focuses not only on performance but on the development needs of an individual for future assignments and is an important part of the career development/ management development process in the Internal Audit Department.
8. Training and Job Enrichment: The training needs of the department for PC skills, language, new auditor training, EDP training, and the use of conferences and seminars was examined to strike a proper balance between the training/management development needs of the wide variety of individuals in the department versus the cost and value of such training and the time away from the job to train. New training programs were developed in-house, training needs of each individual are reviewed annually and individualized training and group training (for example, at the staff meeting) is continuously evaluated as new staff members are hired. Training efforts are coordinated with training offered by Ernst & Young where possible.
9. Office Administration. All of the administrative functions necessary to support a traveling staff both in Cincinnati and in the field were reviewed to eliminate redundancy, rework and inefficient processes. We have made improvements in paperwork flow and are developing a new software system to facilitate scheduling audits; additional efforts will be directed toward this area in 1995.

10. Mission/Vision Statement. The entire audit group was involved in the creation of the department's Mission/Vision Statements which are utilized as guidelines for each audit or project that is performed. (Attached as Exhibit I is a copy of the Mission and Vision statements.)

III. Final Comments

Significant progress has been made since mid-1993 in achieving the goal of streamlining the process, of being more effective and efficient in our audit approach, in the utilization of audit resources and in providing "Value Added" audit work for the Company. While we have been successful at achieving this goal through the efforts of the entire audit team, continuous refinement and "fine tuning" will always be required as we move forward. In addition, having gone through the process, it is clear that in order to continue to stay at the "Leading Edge," we must continuously examine where the Company is going and how we will need to adapt our audit approach to accomplish our audit responsibilities and to provide "value added" to the Company in the future.

In planning and performing our audit of the consolidated financial statements of Chiquita Brands International, Inc. and subsidiary companies for the year ended December 31, 1995, we considered its internal control structure in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the consolidated financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control structure. Our consideration of the internal control structure would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control structure that might be material under standards established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the specific internal control structure elements does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that errors or irregularities in amounts that would be material in relation to the consolidated financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. However, we noted no matters involving the internal control structure and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses as defined above.

We have comments on other matters. The attached summary highlights both actions taken by management to address comments on other matters included in our previous summary letters as well as other matters and developments involving the internal control structure and its operations identified in the current year that we consider to be of particular interest to you.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the audit committee, management, and others within the organization.

We would be pleased to discuss the above matters or to respond to any questions, at your convenience.

Tropical Operations

The reassignment and upgrading of personnel in Colombia, which last year had been an area of considerable concern, is starting to produce the desired result. Local management has made significant progress toward the consolidation of financial and administrative support functions for the Company's three separate farming operations, which in turn has permitted some headcount reductions due to staffing synergies. In addition, the implementation of a single general ledger package has enabled progress in addressing the recordkeeping issues that had been one of the primary causes for concern in the past. The organization's recordkeeping has since been brought up to date. The operations now routinely satisfy local statutory reporting requirements and considerable progress continues to be made in the area of account analysis and reconciliation.

Management continues to emphasize the elimination of unnecessary complexity and the enhancement of systems and procedures that will permit further headcount reductions and, at the same time, further control improvements. Specifically, management has a goal to reorganize the legal structure of the operations, including the elimination in the coming year of the number of subsidiaries through which it operates - presently in excess of 25 - and to close many of its bank accounts that are no longer necessary. In addition, further system enhancements (involving the general ledger package as well as an M&S package installed at year end) that are scheduled for the coming year should result in improvements in the area of management information and reporting.

Given the scope of the undertaking and certain unwanted turnover that has recently occurred, the increased levels of corporate involvement and oversight that has been evidenced continues to be appropriate as division management progresses in its reorganization plans.

North America

The North America management team initially sought to centrally focus in Cincinnati all responsibility for container maintenance activities conducted in the tropics. However, the resultant reassignment of management responsibilities was felt ultimately to have compromised the effectiveness of existing controls. The Company consequently reverted back to have its tropical management oversee all these activities, as it was determined that on-site direct involvement and responsibility was a more effective means by which to control local business practices associated with these activities.

CBI-V1-001-005546

Corporate

The reorganization and associated realignment of responsibilities within the Corporate Controller's organization has served to clarify and enhance certain reporting and functional responsibilities within that organization.

The challenges of the year end closing, which were considerable given the reporting requirements associated with the significant transactions that closed at the end of the year as well as the filings required by the Company's refinancing plans, were satisfied despite less than ideal staffing throughout the closing process. A key vacancy has since been filled with the addition of a manager of financial reporting.

The more focused oversight of financial and operations control, which had in part motivated the reorganization of last year, was evident throughout the year as resources were able to be committed to assist in addressing what had been the recurrent problems in American Produce Company and the Chilean operations of Frupac as well as the control issues identified at California Day Fresh during the current year. As this function has become more routinely proactive in its involvement, the nature of its contribution is becoming one of providing management with an effective early warning system for problem identification and prevention.

Joint Ventures

In an effort to optimize the performance and value of certain of its non-core businesses, the Company recently entered into several joint venture arrangements. Specifically, the following ventures have been structured in the past year and certain others are contemplated:

- the Company's edible oils business in Honduras has been aligned with those of a local competitor.
- the Company's citrus grove and packing facilities have been contributed to a venture for purposes of combining it with the business interests of those of an experienced citrus operator in Florida.

Access to joint venture information is less direct and immediate than is the case with a controlled subsidiary. Consequently, the Controller's organization has been routinely interfacing with the management teams of these organizations to augment the oversight and information flow provided by group level management, which is directly responsible to oversee these operations. However, since these ventures were only recently formed, there were certain isolated exceptions with respect to exchange of information in connection with the year end closing process. Corporate financial management should continue to assess the extent and frequency of contact it deems to be appropriate in each situation to ensure that the flow of information is more effective.

1CHQ6-000983

CBI-V1-001-005547

California Day Fresh

During this past year, significant control issues were identified in the West Coast juice business - California Day Fresh. This business had been integrated as part of the Company's processed food operations; it represented, based on the size of the business, a relatively minor component of these entire operations. Consequently, the level of audit activity since its acquisition had been limited. Internal audit and Ernst & Young collaborated in the performance of comprehensive financial audits in 1995 in connection with a planned public offering. The findings indicated that local financial and general management had been derelict in their responsibilities to routinely perform the necessary periodic account analyses and reconciliation work to ensure the integrity of reported financial information. Appropriate steps have since been taken to remedy this situation, including:

- the replacement of both financial and line management
- all adjustments necessary to correct the accounting records were made
- sufficient audit effort was expended to identify the cause of such deficiencies and a thorough review of existing systems and procedures was undertaken to place the on-going financial organization on a sound footing.

French Sourcing and Distribution Operations

As we had commented upon previously, interim financial reporting had been largely based on estimates, given the limited financial and reporting systems that existed in these farming operations and the staffing limitations in the headquarters office in France.

During this past year, corporate resources were dedicated to address this issue as they worked with local financial management to devise an effective means to routinely report financial information for timely input into the Company's consolidation. As of year end, this information was available for input as part of the year end closing process. A new controller has since been hired in France in order to make that organization self-sufficient in satisfying these informational requirements. Execution of a transition plan for the individual hired is presently under way.

Although considerable progress has been made as it relates to information obtained from certain of these French farming operations, the availability of information from certain of the sourcing operations in which the Company has less than a controlling interest has been hampered by the venture partner, who has not been fully cooperative. As a consequence, we continue to encourage continued focus and oversight from the corporate office.

I. DEPARTMENT OBJECTIVES

The Internal Audit Department established the following objectives for 1995:

- To assure continued performance of quality operational and financial audits and reviews with the results being reported to Management on a timely basis;
- To actively recruit and develop highly qualified individuals and encourage and assist our professional staff to obtain more responsible operational and financial management positions within the Company; and
- To continue the "Leading Edge" program of re-engineering the internal audit function and to improve audit processes and procedures.

A major program for 1995 was the implementation and use of a risk assessment process to assist in selecting the entities with the highest risk to be included in the annual audit plan. The audit activities for 1995 and the audit plan for 1996 were based on this process and the risk assessment model which we developed; an assessment of each entity is continuously updated as audits are completed and as additional or new information about entities becomes known.

II. SUMMARY OF INTERNAL AUDIT FINDINGS

During 1995 Internal Audit, Ernst & Young LLP and Controller's personnel have improved the program to coordinate efforts to: share information regarding audit issues identified at divisions visited; monitor progress at locations where corrective action is necessary; and follow up on major issues to assure implementation of necessary controls and procedures or changes in processes or personnel. This program also includes high level reviews at selected locations by Internal Audit and Controller's personnel where full scope audit work is not scheduled and/or where it is determined that control risk is believed to be limited. This program is working well; it has increased the level of coverage to include additional locations and will enhance corporate governance activity by providing an early indication of problem situations and will improve the timeliness of corrective action.

In the Interim Report for 1995 we highlighted the significant audit activities and special projects for the period from January 1 - November 15, 1995. Our activities from November 15, 1995 - April 30, 1996 continued to focus on major operational and financial audits, including audits which we performed in lieu of Ernst & Young LLP related to their audit of the December 31, 1995 consolidated financial statements of the Company. During the period November 15, 1995 - April 30, 1996 we completed 14 operational and financial audits and special assignments. Of the audit recommendations issued, 97% have been accepted; of the remaining items, all significant matters have been adequately addressed.

BANANA OPERATIONS:

Year-end reviews of CBCBV, Great White Fleet and Tela Railroad indicated adequate controls, and that financial statements were fairly stated. During 1995 we also visited the Armuelles, Bocas, COBAL, and COBIGUA divisions at least once to perform audits of disbursements or special request/limited scope reviews of M&S, Purchased Fruit Contracts, Accounts Payable, or Payroll. All areas subject to review were found to be satisfactorily controlled. Our audit of internal controls in the Colombia divisions in October 1995, and subsequent follow-up, indicated the divisions have made progress in correcting internal controls and improving accounting and control procedures. Additional necessary improvements are underway; to facilitate future progress, senior Corporate and Operations management recently formed an assessment team to assist Colombia management in prioritizing and resolving the issues in Colombia and to participate in a plan for further correction and implementation.

NON-BANANA OPERATIONS:

During 1995 and into early 1996, major efforts were directed toward improving controls and procedures in the non-banana operations. Internal Audit and Ernst & Young LLP were extensively involved in late 1995 and early 1996 in identifying and correcting accounting and internal control issues identified during a requested audit of the three year period 1993-1995 at California Day Fresh. A 1995 year-end review of American Produce and monitoring by CBII Controller's personnel during the last quarter of 1995 indicated financial statements were fairly stated and significant progress had been made by the Division in correcting prior accounting and control issues. At Frupac Chile (renamed Exportadora Chiquita) we, and the Corporate Controller's Department, are in the process of following-up on progress in implementing recommendations made in our mid-1995 report and are assisting the Division in developing more accurate inventory cost reporting.

III. SUMMARY OF INDIVIDUAL AUDITS AND SPECIAL PROJECT ACTIVITIES

The more significant matters noted during the period subsequent to our Interim Report, as well as follow-up on matters noted in our Interim Report are presented below:

BANANA OPERATIONS:

Internal Controls Review - Colombia:

Subsequent to our review of internal controls for the Colombian divisions in October 1995, Internal Audit and senior Corporate and Operations management continue to be actively involved in the monitoring and resolution of the issues identified. Progress has been made in addressing the issues in Colombia since our October review. To facilitate future progress, senior Corporate and Operations management has recently formed an assessment team to assist Colombia management in identifying and prioritizing issues in Colombia and to participate in the planning and implementation of solutions to improve and enhance procedures, processes, and controls. Ernst & Young LLP performed a statutory audit of December 31, 1995 balances and we have scheduled a follow-up to our 1995 review which will include a review of the security and controls over the new M&S system and MIS operations.

Container Maintenance Operations - Puerto Barrios, Guatemala; Puerto Limon, Costa Rica; and Puerto Cortes, Honduras:

At the request of senior management in the Chiquita Banana Group, we performed a review of the Container Maintenance Operations (CMO) in Puerto Barrios due to alleged misappropriations by the Container Maintenance Manager (Manager). Through our review, it was determined that the total estimated loss amounted to approximately $126M and included: collaborating with a labor contractor to falsify repairs; using mechanics in the Manager's personal business; misappropriating Company owned equipment; improper reimbursement to the Manager for personal expenses; and billing the CMO for the cost of fictitious employees. The Manager was terminated from the Company, as was his superior and one other CMO employee.

Additionally, we performed similar control reviews at Puerto Cortes and Puerto Limon in coordination with the Director of Corporate Security and his staff. As a result of our reviews, it was determined the CMO reporting structure to North America management did not provide for effective oversight or supervision. It was agreed that direct reporting responsibility for the CMO in Guatemala, Costa Rica, and Honduras should be to the respective General Manager and Controller in those countries. As a result of the new reporting structures, the Controllers in the respective countries are taking an active role in improving the internal control procedures at the CMO's based on the recommendations from our reviews.

Tela Railroad Company - La Lima, Honduras:

We performed a year-end audit of Tela Railroad Company for the year ended December 31, 1995 and found the financial statements fairly stated. During our interim audit of Tela in the fourth quarter of 1995, we observed that bank account reconciliations for payroll and suppliers accounts were not up-to-date. The bank reconciliations were brought up-to-date by January 1996. There were no significant control issues or adjustments necessary to Tela's December 31, 1995 year-end financial reporting package.

Great White Fleet - Antwerp, Belgium:

We performed a year-end audit of Great White Fleet for the year ended December 31, 1995 and found the financial statements fairly stated. Management has made progress in collecting outstanding receivable balances since our review in 1995. The trade receivable balances have significantly decreased from $8.5 million at September 30, 1995, to $5.8 million at December 31, 1995. Management is considering various methods of further improving its trade receivables management practices, including the generation of an aging report through its computer system instead of a manually prepared spreadsheet, and continues to place emphasis on collecting its outstanding accounts-receivable.

Chiquita Banana Company, B.V. (CBCBV) - Antwerp, Belgium:

We performed a year-end audit of CBCBV for the year ended December 31, 1995 and found the financial statements fairly stated. Our audit determined the need to write-off the amount of the investment in IFS since during 1993 and 1994 liquidating dividends received from the venture were reflected inappropriately as income and not as a return of the investment. IFS was set up to operate ripening rooms in Russia.

Tropical Financial Reporting:

As part of an attempt to streamline the financial reporting process and improve efficiency, we have been leading a project, in conjunction with Chiquita Banana Group, to re-engineer and reduce the financial and operational reporting requirements to Cincinnati from the Tropics. The project includes reports required by Tax, Treasury, Controllers and operating headquarters personnel. As a preliminary result of working with the respective departments on the project, we have identified a potential reduction of reports currently being transmitted to Cincinnati from the Tropics through eliminating unnecessary reporting, reducing the frequency of reports and combining similar reports. We have also identified additional time savings through reconfiguring and computerizing various information currently being prepared inefficiently and/or manually. The proposed changes are such that they will enhance the efficiency and effectiveness of the reporting process while maintaining accuracy and control over the reported information.

NON-BANANA OPERATIONS:

California Day Fresh (CDF) - Los Angeles, California:

During the fourth quarter of 1995 we, and Ernst & Young LLP, provided extensive resources to various projects at CDF. The projects included a three year proof of cash and working with Ernst & Young LLP in analyzing the balance sheet and statement of operations and reviewing the internal controls over the major transaction cycles. An extensive analysis of the past three years financial statements and the related supporting documents was performed by Ernst & Young LLP for a contemplated public offering; as a result of this effort, and that put forth by Internal Audit and the Diversified Group's management team in Cincinnati, CDF's December 31, 1995 financial results reflected an adjustment of approximately $5 million to properly reflect the year-end retained earnings. (CDF had net sales, total assets, and net equity, of approximately $30.6 million, $11.9 million, and $4.9 million respectively as of and for the year ended December 31, 1995.) While no single factor was identified as the source of the required adjustments, no evidence was found indicating any cash was misappropriated. The findings indicated that financial management had not performed the necessary reconciliation work and periodic account analysis to ensure the accuracy and integrity of the reported financial information. The Controller was replaced in February 1996 and a replacement has been announced to fill the General Manager's position which was vacated on April 26, 1996. We will perform a follow-up review in June 1996 to determine the status of internal control improvements, analyze the propriety of, and support for, the 1996 year-to-date financial statements, and assess the transition of the new Controller into the CDF operations.

American Produce - Los Angeles, California:

We continue to partner with the CBII Controller's Department to actively monitor the improvement process at American Produce. We performed a year-end audit of American Produce for the year ended December 31, 1995 and found the financial statements fairly stated and that significant progress had been made by the Division to correct previous accounting and control issues. We also performed an audit of a new Management Information System (A/R, Cash, A/P, Produce Inventory and G/L). Our overall conclusion is that the system is now functioning as intended and the data processed by the system is satisfactorily controlled.

Frupac Chile - Santiago, Chile:

We are in the final stages of our follow-up examination which includes an analysis of the progress made in implementing the recommendations in our May 1995 Internal Audit Report, and an analysis of the 1996 year-to-date financial results. We are also assisting Management in developing a reporting system to provide more adequate product cost information for analysis of profitability by lot and product line. Management is in the final testing phase of implementing enhancements to the fruit production and exporting information systems. Additional enhancements are being considered, as are enhancements to the general accounting system to improve information availability and report writing capabilities. The new systems and the results of our current review should provide Frupac with more enhanced financial and management reporting capabilities.

Savings and Investment Plan - Conversion:

We reviewed the conversion of the Savings and Investment Plan to a new trustee [redacted] and plan administrator (Coopers & Lybrand). Observations and exceptions identified were corrected during conversion and resulted in an orderly and controlled conversion of participants and fund balances.

IV. PERSONNEL HIGHLIGHTS AND ORGANIZATION CHART

ORGANIZATION:

During 1995 and in early-1996 we continued to recruit, hire, and train qualified individuals who possess the competencies and job skills which are consistent with the Leading Edge criteria. Additionally, our professionals continued to be placed in positions with financial and operational management responsibilities within other CBII units. While recruiting continues to be a challenge, our recruiting efforts have continued at a strong pace during 1995 and through the date of this report. Since January we have hired three highly qualified individuals with audit background, accounting experience and division knowledge.

PERSONNEL HIGHLIGHTS:

A. New Staff:

1996 AUDIT SCOPE

General Approach and Audit Scope Definitions

General Approach

The general scope of our audit work will be such that we can express an opinion on the consolidated financial statements of Chiquita Brands International, Inc. and subsidiary companies for the year ended December 31, 1996. Our audit will be made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and, accordingly, will include such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we consider necessary in the circumstances. In addition, we are required to report separately on the financial statements of certain subsidiaries. The scope of work to be performed at the units visited will be either:

- o Full
- o Statutory
- o Limited
- o Review
- o High-level review
- o Desk review

In addition, the financial statements of all units at which work is not performed as well as general office and consolidating entries will be reviewed at the respective corporate or group headquarters. If findings require, such reviews will be supplemented with inquiries and/or actual visits to the unit.

Definitions and descriptions of each scope level are presented below. A local Audit Strategies Memorandum is to be prepared and submitted to Ernst & Young-Cincinnati, for all units subject to full scope or statutory audit requirements, setting forth the procedures to be performed within the assigned scope for each significant audit area along with a detail of budgeted hours for each. These plans will be reviewed and approved by Ernst & Young-Cincinnati prior to commencement of significant audit work. The scope of the procedures selected for each unit is a function of the following factors:

- o Materiality of the unit's financial statements, both with respect to dollar amounts and sensitivity, to the consolidated financial statements of Chiquita Brands International, Inc.
- o Scope and results of the firm's work, as well as the internal audit work, in previous years (including consideration of our cycling approach) and the extent and nature of internal audit activity during the year ending December 31, 1996.

1CHQ6-000998

- o Known or anticipated accounting and auditing problems.
- o Requirements for separate financial statements.
- o Requests by Chiquita Brands International, Inc. management.

Audit Scope Definitions

Full

A full scope audit will entail an audit of significant accounts in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards in the United States. The work performed would be sufficient, with certain minimal additional procedures, to enable us to form an opinion on the financial statements of a unit if such statements were required. Briefly, the audit steps involved will be a review, documentation and evaluation of internal control systems; sample testing and evaluation of transactions occurring in these systems; observation or test counting of inventories (including observation of fixed assets if the control of fixed assets is determined to be ineffective); independent confirmation of bank balances, investments, loan and accounts receivable balances; and audit of significant balance sheet and income and expense accounts.

Statutory

A statutory audit is similar to a full scope audit in that the audit will be performed in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards in the United States. However, the end product of a statutory audit usually will be certified financial statements prepared in accordance with either local or U.S. generally accepted accounting principles, as required. Therefore, in all statutory audits, the scope of the audit will be sufficient to permit the issuance of an opinion on the specific financial report required by the local statute, agreement, etc.

Limited

A limited scope audit will entail an audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards in the United States only of certain selected significant and/or sensitive balance sheet and/or income or expense accounts. Generally, this will include review, testing, and evaluation of the critical internal control systems. The extent of work and hours required will vary considerably and will depend upon the circumstances at each unit.

Review

A review is intended to accomplish a survey of the financial statements and supporting schedules of the unit which, when supplemented by discussions with management officials and a limited comparison of records, will provide information concerning the financial position and operations of the unit, without the performance of detailed tests of the records. Again, the extent of work and hours required will vary considerably and will depend upon the circumstances at each unit. A sample of the steps involved in a review include the following:

- o Review (but not detailed testing) of the critical/sensitive internal control system or systems.
- o Follow-up on status of problems identified and/or recommendations made in prior years as well as any significant comments contained in internal audit reports.
- o Comparison of balance sheet and income statement to budgeted and to prior year results: Review and, where appropriate, perform limited testing of client analyses supporting critical account balances. Discussion of significant fluctuations and/or unusual items with management and accounting personnel.
- o Review of the financial impact of current business conditions on the unit.
- o Review of the propriety of the accounting principles of the unit and of the effect of any changes in the application of accounting principles from the prior year.
- o Where applicable, review of company-prepared workpapers related to the most recent physical inventory and reconciliation of the inventory balances to the general ledger. Determination that the method of pricing inventory is consistent with the prior period and in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. Review of inventory turnover computations or other relevant data for indications of excessive or obsolete stock.
- o Review of the year-end financial reporting package for completeness and reasonableness.

High-level review

A high-level review is similar to a review but less detailed. It generally would contemplate a site visit to the location for purposes of identifying through discussions with local management and limited inspection of accounting records any matters of accounting, auditing or reporting significance to the consolidated financial statements as it relates to the particular business unit in question.

1CHQ6-001000

Desk Review

A desk review is similar to a high-level review but somewhat less detailed. Performance of a desk review generally does not require a site visit to the location. In the case of more significant operating units, this scope of review in connection with the year end audit would generally not be employed unless on-site audit work had been performed earlier in the year. The procedures involved in a desk review would typically include:

- o Critical review of local financial statements, corporate financial reporting package and certain key detailed support schedules and analyses.
- o Discussions with management concerning any significant balance sheet and income statement fluctuations from the prior year.
- o Follow-up on status of problems identified and/or recommendations made in prior years as well as any significant comments included in internal audit reports.
- o Review of the financial impact of current business conditions on the unit.
- o Discussions with management regarding any changes in accounting principles from the prior year.

CHIQUITA BRANDS INTERNATIONAL, INC.

DOMESTIC AND LATIN AMERICA NOTES

- (1) Reflects that portion of partner and senior manager time allocable to Chiquita Brands. Such time relates to involvement in the audits of the various Chiquita Brands entities, including related visits; consultations with management regarding matters of significance, including those noted during these visits; integration of the internal audit function into the audit process; involvement in audit, accounting and reporting issues associated with numerous compliance reporting requirements of Chiquita Brands, Inc. and its subsidiaries and with the separate statutory audits of numerous Chiquita Brands entities (approximately 50 separate reports).

In addition to the partner and senior manager time allocated to Chiquita Brands Corporate, this caption also includes all Chiquita Brands senior manager and manager time (except for that time spent in other areas which is included in the individual entities) in the following audit areas: overall planning and coordination; review of local entity topside binders; consolidation and General Office entries (including bananas-in-transit, tropical severance, deferred crop costs, Colombian pension, claims, insurance coverages, intercompany account reconciliations/adjustments, income allocations for tax purposes); systems work (wire transfers, disbursements, consolidation, volumes tracking, payroll, etc.); Chiquita Brands Corporate ledger (including producer loans, accruals/reserves, domestic cash accounts); time for assisting in/coordinating the statutory audits of certain foreign entities.

- (2) Reflects use of coordination with internal auditors.
- (3) Reflects all computer audit work related to domestic and Latin American entities.
- (4) Relates to the various special purpose reports (OPIC borrowings and "936" financings, including the tax opinion required, plus an additional report for bonding purposes for the U.S. Coast Guard).
- (5) Includes a recurring statutory audit requirement on the combined operations of Polymer in Panama.

AUDIT COVERAGE OBJECTIVES - 1997

- Prioritize scheduling of audit entities in the 1997 Audit Plan with higher assessed risk values over those of lower value. The risk assessment process, which provides more comprehensive and relevant data to evaluate the audit risk/exposure of each entity was used, along with our knowledge of the business, to select locations for audit in 1997. The Plan will be updated during the year to include high risk areas that are noted as part of the ongoing risk assessment process.
- Audit entities senior management requested be covered.
- Provide at least minimum annual coverage (e.g., by functional or regular audit) of each major business area: Tropical; Transportation; North America Marketing; Europe Marketing; Other International Marketing; Non-Banana Fresh; Processed Foods; and Corporate.
- Perform high level reviews at certain locations, in conjunction with Controller's personnel, where there are long intervals between audits to ensure a control environment exists and to have a corporate presence at the location.
- Coordinate Internal Audit and Ernst & Young's requirements to reduce costs and eliminate duplication of work. In conjunction with Ernst & Young, assess audit scopes and approach for major year-end audits to increase audit efficiency and effectiveness while still providing value-added recommendations.
- Provide appropriate staff time for special project work (balanced with regularly scheduled audit work) to accommodate internal requests for audit assistance.
- Provide for professional development of the audit staff through management and supervisory skills seminars, audit training programs, computer audit techniques, PC training, language courses, and Staff Meeting agenda topics.
- Hire highly qualified individuals in authorized positions and maintain optimum staffing levels with the knowledge/skills needed to be effective in our environment. This is a continuing challenge due largely to the extent of our travel (50% of 365 days) and the locations to which we travel. The need for personnel who are fluent in Spanish and/or other languages also continues to be a requirement for approximately 50% of staff members.

ASSUMPTIONS

- Average staffing level will be 18 and at times may include additional personnel, such as associates from other CBII units, who are temporarily assigned for developmental purposes.
- Total merit increases granted will not exceed 4% of the 12/31/96 annualized salaries of our authorized complement.
- Travel will average approximately 50% for the staff, 25% for the Directors, and 15% for the Vice President (on a 365 day basis).
- Associate Benefits, recruiting and relocation costs, the cost of executive searches and employment agency fees are included in the 1997 Internal Audit TCS. Costs of developmental assignments (e.g., transfer of an associate from the tropics to Internal Audit) will be borne by the Audit Department; transfers to the tropics will be borne by the receiving location.

The Audit Committee of the Board of Directors
Chiquita Brands International, Inc.
250 East Fifth Street
Cincinnati, Ohio 45202

In planning and performing our audit of the consolidated financial statements of Chiquita Brands International, Inc. and subsidiary companies for the year ended December 31, 1996, we considered its internal control structure in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the consolidated financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control structure. Our consideration of the internal control structure would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control structure that might be material weakness under standards established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the specific internal control structure elements does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that errors or irregularities in amounts that would be material in relation to the consolidated financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. However, we noted no matters involving the internal control structure and its operation that we consider to be material weaknesses as defined above.

We have commented on other matters and developments involving the internal control structure and the Company's operations identified in the current year which we consider to be of particular interest to you.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the audit committee, management, and others within the organization.

We would be pleased to discuss the above matters or to respond to any questions, at your convenience.

Tropical Operations - Colombia

In prior years, we have commented upon the need to strengthen the financial and administrative reporting and management systems in Colombia. In this regard, progress has been made in many areas.

In the current year end financial reporting and closing process, Colombia reported its results on a timely basis. In addition, such results were generally reported without requiring subsequent adjustment by Corporate personnel. This is in large part attributable to efforts made in upgrading financial systems and streamlining the organization, coupled with the assignment of new management personnel at the Chief Administrative Officer, Controller and Assistant Controller levels. Contributing to this improvement was management's fulfilling of its goal to reduce the number of entities operating in Colombia.

Management continues to focus upon the elimination of unnecessary complexity in the operation and management of the business, as well as emphasizing the enhancement of systems and procedures that will permit further headcount reductions and, at the same time, promote continued improvements in financial controls.

French Sourcing and Distribution Operations

During this past year, a senior financial operating officer was hired in France in order to strengthen the financial reporting processes and systems of internal controls of that organization. With continued oversight and support provided by Corporate personnel, considerable progress has been made as it relates to the timeliness and quality of the financial information obtained relating to these operations. In recognition of the strides made in the business during the year, the financial officer has accepted new responsibilities within the organization, having recently been promoted to General Manager. Although he will remain visible in the financial operations in his new role, from a financial management and control perspective, we believe a vacuum has been created in this area by not having a Controller (or similar function) to actively monitor financial controls and exercise oversight in the financial reporting process. While management acknowledges that the financial organization needs to be strengthened, it is actively monitoring the situation and believes that the existing staff is capable and have demonstrated marked development, and that an individual within the group will continue to mature into the Controller (or similar) role in the near future.

CBI-V1-001-005684

European organizational restructuring

The European banana business has undergone a significant reduction in headcount in response to the imposition of the restrictive EU banana quota regime just a few years ago. Similarly, the shipping operations were relocated from Cincinnati to Europe only a few years ago. The natural effects associated with these events were steep learning curves relating to understanding new functions and assignments, and the re-establishment of adequate financial controls. We believe that the controls and accounting processes in each of the European banana business and shipping operations, currently, are adequate and are functioning effectively.

Corporate and European management have undertaken the task of physically combining the principal operating groups in the European banana business and shipping operations into one location. Concurrently, the organizational structure and headcount in the financial reporting and analysis areas are being jointly reviewed by Corporate and European personnel in order to identify opportunities to maximize efficiency and reduce overall overhead costs. After development and senior management approval, it will be European management's responsibility to implement any planned changes.

We support management's efforts in this endeavor, and recommend that a goal of the restructured organization be to maintain or enhance the effectiveness of the groups' current financial controls and accounting processes.

Year 2000 compliance

The Company's MIS and Financial and Administrative management personnel have undertaken a Company-wide effort regarding the Year 2000 system compliance issue. Management has performed a Year 2000 system compliance assessment, developed a plan to redress identified needs and has begun execution of their plan, having achieved many of their plan's identified milestones. Corporate MIS has adopted an oversight and coordination role in these processes.

The Company's decentralized approach provides that local management throughout the world identify potential compliance problems, establish a timetable under which the steps to remedy identified problems will be completed and marshal resources, either locally or from Corporate, to execute their plan. Corporate MIS is playing a key role in this process, by reviewing local plans, assisting in the execution thereof, and providing a test platform at Corporate to ensure that the problems have been fully addressed before the target applications go into production.

Senior management has acknowledged that this issue demands immediate attention, as well as personnel and financial resources. In light of the fact that the Year 2000 issue is not merely an MIS issue, as it potentially affects any equipment which uses a computer chip (e.g., PBX and phone systems) or third-party business processes (e.g., Electronic Data Interface applications), we support the efforts of senior management in addressing and monitoring this process to ensure completion and successful execution well in advance of the year 2000.

INTERNAL AUDIT
Annual Report 1996

I. DEPARTMENT OBJECTIVES

The Internal Audit Department established the following objectives for 1996:

- To assure continued performance of quality operational and financial audits and reviews with the results being reported to Management on a timely basis;
- To actively recruit and develop highly qualified individuals and encourage and assist our professional staff to obtain more responsible operational and financial management positions within the Company;
- To continue the "Leading Edge" program of re-engineering the internal audit function by improving the effectiveness and efficiency of our audit processes and procedures; and
- To enhance the value added services we deliver to the Company by focusing on an operational approach for all of our projects and to provide value added solutions which incorporate the most effective internal and operational controls.

We continued to use a risk assessment process to assist in selecting the entities with the highest risk to be included in the annual audit plan. The audit activities for 1996 and the audit plan for 1997 were based on this process and on the risk assessment model which we developed; an assessment of each entity is continuously updated as audits are completed and as additional or new information about entities becomes known.

II. SUMMARY OF INTERNAL AUDIT FINDINGS

During 1996 Internal Audit, Ernst & Young LLP and Controller's personnel have continued to improve their coordination efforts to: share information regarding audit issues identified at divisions visited; monitor progress at locations where corrective action is necessary; and follow up on major issues to assure implementation of necessary controls and procedures or changes in processes or personnel. This program also includes high level reviews at selected locations by Internal Audit and Controller's personnel where full scope audit work is not scheduled and/or where it is determined that control risk is believed to be limited. This coordinated program of identifying and addressing issues has worked well; it has increased the level of coverage provided to the Company to include additional locations and enhances corporate governance activities by providing an early indication of potential problem situations thus improving the timeliness of corrective action.

In 1996 we continued to focus on major operational and financial audits, including audits which we performed in lieu of Ernst & Young LLP related to their audit of the December 31, 1996 consolidated financial statements of the Company. During January 1, 1996 - December 31, 1996 we completed 50 operational and financial audits and special assignments. Of the audit recommendations issued, all significant matters have been or are in the process of being adequately addressed.

BANANA OPERATIONS:

Year-end reviews of CBCBV, CIL and COBAL indicated adequate controls, and that financial statements were fairly stated. During 1996 we also visited the Armuelles, Bócas, Tela Railroad, COBIGUA and Ecuador divisions at least once to perform audits of disbursements or special request/limited scope reviews of Materials & Supplies, Purchased Fruit Contracts, Box Plants, Accounts Payable, or Payroll. All areas subject to review were found to be satisfactorily controlled. In the Colombian division, senior Corporate and Operations management formed an assessment team in 1996 that worked with Colombian management in prioritizing and resolving the issues in Colombia and participated in a plan for further correction and implementation. [redacted] Internal Audit Manager, was a key player in the assessment team and was promoted to Controller in Colombia. We have analyzed the effectiveness of the controls during an internal controls review completed in April 1997 and found significant progress has been made in correcting procedural and control issues. The French Sourcing operations were also reviewed, and an implementation plan has been started to enhance the timeliness and accuracy of the monthly financial reporting.

b6
b7C

We performed a requested special review of Polymer Costa Rica to validate information reported in the Polymer Financial Statements at year end; numerous adjustments were required, additional controls were necessary and senior management changes were made at the Polymer divisions.

NON-BANANA OPERATIONS:

During 1996, management continued its emphasis on improving controls and procedures in the non-banana operations. We performed a follow-up review at California Day Fresh and found the new management team had significantly improved the overall control environment. A review by Internal Audit in early 1996, and a follow-up review by the Controller's Group personnel in late 1996, found Exportadora Chiquita (previously Frupac Chile) had implemented or was in the process of implementing all of our recommendations. Additionally, we assisted Exportadora Chiquita in developing and implementing a more accurate inventory cost reporting system.

III. SUMMARY OF INDIVIDUAL AUDITS AND SPECIAL PROJECT ACTIVITIES

The more significant matters noted during the period subsequent to our 1995 Annual Report, as well as follow-up on matters noted in our Annual Report are presented below:

BANANA OPERATIONS:

Colombia Financial - Medellin, Colombia:

Since early 1996 the Colombia Division has gone through major restructuring that included a new Financial Management team and the reduction of the staffing levels in the Financial and Administrative group from 109 people on June 30, 1996 to 62 on March 13, 1997 (during our audit, staffing was further reduced). In addition to this, two new applications system were implemented for Accounts Payable and M&S.

Based on our April 1997 review just completed, we found operations and internal controls in the Cash and Treasury, Accounts Payable, New Business Development, M&S and Fixed Assets areas to have improved significantly from prior years especially considering all the changes mentioned above. All the issues mentioned in the 1995 Internal Audit Report "Financial Internal Control Review" have been satisfactorily resolved or the division has specific plans to correct outstanding items. Recommendations for certain MIS items relating to disaster recovery capability and access controls over production systems have been accepted by the division and will be implemented.

COBAL - San Jose, Costa Rica:

A year-end audit was performed at COBAL for the year ended December 31, 1996, and we found the financial statements fairly stated. We offered several recommendations for control and operational improvements related to the accounting for materials and supplies inventory, payroll, and property and equipment and over the information systems. There were no significant control issues or adjustments necessary to COBAL's December 31, 1996, year-end financial reporting package.

French Sourcing - Paris, France, Martinique, Ivory Coast:

We performed two reviews related to the French Source business in 1996: a review of the December 1995 financial statements along with a disbursements and limited controls review in the Ivory Coast; and a review of the closing and the consolidation process and the financial statements as of September 30, 1996. As part of our second review we visited Martinique and performed an operational and financial review of Company owned farms. We found the overall control environment in the French Source business to be improving, however, additional efforts needed to be made by the Paris based French Source financial team to restructure and streamline the closing and financial reporting process. These efforts are currently underway and improvements have been noted. We have planned a follow-up review to assess the status of the improvement efforts and to perform a more detailed analysis of the operations in the Ivory Coast.

Box Plants - Honduras and Armuellas, Panama:

As requested by Management, we performed a review of the Armuellas and Tela Box Plants and contract reviews of the box contracts in Costa Rica, Guatemala, Colombia, and Bocas. Our review focused on the adequacy and effectiveness of internal controls and procedures associated with purchasing and receiving of raw material inventories, delivery of finished boxes, scrap and quality control, maintenance, and financial and management reporting. Based on our reviews, the internal controls and procedures in place associated with the above activities appear adequate and effective. The results of our reviews were utilized by the process design team which was formed by North American Integrated Market Transformation Process to identify process improvement opportunities within the packaging area.

Almirante Port Operations - Almirante, Panama:

At the request of Bocas Management, we performed a review of the port operations including breakbulk and pallet loading, maintenance and quality control, and overall port payroll controls. Our results identified opportunities for cost reductions and process improvements by reducing: the number of employees in maintenance and quality control, the use of overtime, and down time awaiting fruit for loading. We also confirmed for Bocas management that there are further opportunities for work gang headcount reductions. Management at Bocas has either implemented our recommendations or is developing an implementation methodology.

Chiquita Banana Company, B.V. (CBCBV) and CIL - Antwerp, Belgium and Bermuda:
We performed a year-end audit of CBCBV and CIL for the year ended December 31, 1996 and found the financial statements fairly stated. Our audit determined that the quality of the accounting records and the related internal controls for CBCBV had improved. During 1996, we also performed a review of the accounting and treasury operations in CIL and found the controls to be adequate. CIL Accounting is now working with CIL Allocations, the Corporate Controller's Group, and the tropical divisions to design and implement an effective volume tracking system for use throughout the worldwide operations.

Bocas Internal Controls Review - Changuinola, Panama:

We performed an internal controls review for the Bocas division covering the areas of materials and supplies, payroll, other accounts receivable, cash and cash disbursements, manager's expenses and statutory benefits. We found operations and internal controls to have improved significantly and that Management is committed to continually improve the overall control environment. The recommendations included various operational improvement ideas which are currently being implemented.

Polymer - San José, Costa Rica:

We were requested to perform a special review of Polymer Costa Rica for the year ended December 31, 1996 to assure the accuracy of amounts reported on Polymer balance sheets and to validate P&L amounts for 1996 used in bonus calculations. We found accounting practices and internal control procedures were weak and numerous adjustments were necessary to correct financial statements. The General Manager, Controller and Director of Manufacturing were terminated from the company.

NON-BANANA OPERATIONS:

California Day Fresh (CDF) - Los Angeles, California:

We performed a follow-up review in June 1996 to determine the status of internal control improvements, analyze the propriety of, and support for, the 1996 year-to-date financial statements, and assess the transition of the new General Manager and Controller into the CDF operation. We found the financial statements as of and for the five months ended May 25, 1996, to be fairly stated and the operations of California Day Fresh to be adequately controlled. These findings were subsequently confirmed by the Controller's Group during a follow-up review of the controls and financial information during the fourth quarter of 1996.

Frupac Chile - Santiago, Chile:

In April we performed a follow-up examination which included an analysis of the progress made in implementing the recommendations in our May 1995 Internal Audit Report, and an analysis of the 1996 year-to-date financial results. We also assisted Management in developing a reporting system to provide more adequate product cost information for analysis of profitability by lot and product line. Management implemented an enhanced fruit production and exporting information system as well as enhancements to the general accounting system to improve information availability and report writing capabilities. The new systems and the results of our review provided Frupac with improved financial and management reporting capabilities. Based on our examination and a follow-up review by the Controller's Group in the fourth quarter of 1996, improvements have been made in the internal controls and in the overall operating environment.

IV. PERSONNEL HIGHLIGHTS AND ORGANIZATION CHART

ORGANIZATION:

During 1996 and in early 1997 we continued to recruit, hire, and train qualified individuals who possess the competencies and job skills which are consistent with our objectives to continually upgrade the quality of our professional staff and to provide ever increasing value added services to the operating units of the Company. During the year our professionals continued to be requested for and placed in positions with financial and operational management responsibilities within other CBII units. While recruiting continues to be a challenge, our recruiting efforts have continued at a strong pace during 1996 and through the date of this report. We continue to actively address our recruiting challenges and have initiated a program to recruit on campus at the leading colleges, such as Thunderbird, which provide candidates with language skills and advanced degrees in international management.

We recently reorganized the structure of the Internal Audit Department with the three Audit Managers reporting directly to the Vice President. This organization structure, and the Audit Director position, will be evaluated later this year by a newly appointed Vice President - Internal Audit.

SUBJECT:

Information Systems -Year 2000 Compliance

Policy No. B-2.0

Issue Date 11/27/1996

ISSUER:

Vice President and Controller
Vice President, Information Systems

Approved

OBJECTIVE:

To communicate the Company's policy regarding year 2000 compliance as it relates to Information Technology, including, but not limited to computer hardware and operating software, application software, whether purchased or developed in house, telephone equipment, networking equipment and software, and other electronic timing devices.

SCOPE:

This policy applies to all Chiquita Brands units, subsidiaries and affiliates.

BACKGROUND:

The issue is the pervasive use of two digits to designate the year in computer hardware and software. For example, many computer operating systems and programs will write January 1, 2000 as 01/01/00 and "read" this date incorrectly as January 1, 1900. The use of '00' may result in systems failing to correctly perform calculations, sort data properly or delete from data bases current data that is presumed 'out of date' or 'past normal retention'.

This problem may prevent a business unit (or your vendors, suppliers or customers) from processing its transactions and business information properly. It may also affect peripheral electronic systems programmed with dates, such as telephone systems, process and/or temperature control systems, time clocks or other similar devices.

POLICY:

As the year 2000 approaches, without appropriate corrective action, Chiquita business units, subsidiaries and affiliates may not be able to process dates correctly. All units must immediately plan, allocate resources and begin to implement procedures to ensure that computer based information systems will correctly process dates up to and beyond the Year 2000. The senior-most financial officer of each location is responsible for ensuring Year 2000 compliance for his or her business unit.

To assist in monitoring and ensuring Year 2000 compliance, all Chiquita Brands unit CFO's / Controllers working with their local MIS management, are required to prepare and submit the following:

1. A Year 2000 compliance plan to the office of the C.B.I.L. Vice President, Information Systems by March 1, 1997.

Confidential Treatment
Request by Chiquita Brands

SUBJECT: Information Systems - Year 2000 Compliance	Policy No. B-2.0
	Issue Date 11/27/1996

2. A quarterly status of progress against the plan. Such status to be submitted as defined in Exhibit A attached and concurrent with other quarterly corporate financial reporting requirements.

3. A Final Compliance Letter for Year 2000 compliance (see Exhibit B) by November 1, 1998.

RESPONSIBILITY:

Local Management ownership and allocation of sufficient resources to this problem is essential. For questions regarding this policy, contact the Vice President, Information Systems [redacted] 513-784-8267). For assistance in planning and identifying resource options, contact the C.B.I.I. Sr. Director, MIS Strategy, Data Administration and Year 2000 Compliance [redacted] 513-784-8263) or the Manager, MIS Year 2000 Compliance, [redacted] 513-784-8355).

Assurance and Advisory Business Services

In addition to providing you with our audit scopes and fees relating to the December 1997 audit, we wanted to take this opportunity to communicate certain activities which have occurred throughout 1996 and 1997 which we believe are examples of the close-working partnership between Ernst & Young and Chiquita Brands International which transcends our core assurance services. Our business advisory relationship has been co-developed over the years, and is maintained at the highest level of quality which you have come to expect and require. We have included examples of these value-added activities and welcome your input as to additional value we can bring to the Company in the future.

Item	Description	Value
Internal Audit
Coordination with Internal Audit	In conjunction with Internal Audit, developed an integrated audit plan so as to maximize usage of audit resources on an optimal cost-effective basis	Provided comprehensive audit coverage throughout the Company on a risk-weighted, cost-effective basis
Information systems audit outsourcing	Information Systems Audit and Advisory Services (ISAAS) personnel have worked in coordination with Internal Audit to provide technical and planning resources	Expanded service capacity for Internal Audit in an identified risk area, including providing two fully bi-lingual individuals to execute the audit plan
Internal audit training	Newly hired Internal Audit individuals attend an E&Y Audit Methodology training session	Provides consistent approach and conceptual audit framework so as to enhance audit quality
Transaction related
Project Florence	Tax and deal structuring, U.K. and U.S. registration and reporting issues, U.K. versus U.S. financial statement review, issue identification, tax and financial due diligence assistance	Leveraged the global resources of the firm to meet the Company's needs related to this complex proposed transaction
Canning acquisitions	Due diligence assistance and financial statement review, including strategies to provide tax advantaged transaction structures	Supplementing the Company's resources in its evaluation of potential acquisition targets and providing favorable deal structures
Lease structuring	Review of complex ship and farming leases to achieve off-balance sheet accounting treatment	Leveraged National Office resources to provide advice and accounting guidelines related to these proposed transactions
Friday Canning tornado claim	Experts' review of the Company's insurance policies, claim development and business options relating to this event	Maximized insurance reimbursement at no cost to the Company

Item	Description	Value
Audit efficiency efforts
Reassessment of audit fee	Reassessment of the audit fee in light of recent pressures on the Company's earnings performance	Direct benefit to Company's P&L results
Realignment of audit focus in North American market	Defined North America in a manner consistent with the basis on which the business is managed rather than on a legal entity basis	Provides enhanced business insight and direction of audit focus
Comprehensive use of available audit technology	Utilize state-of-the-art computer assisted auditing techniques to streamline the accounts receivable confirmation process in North America	Reduces staff time involved in the non-value added process of managing a large volume, confirmation process
Use of administrative support personnel	Engage E&Y administrative support personnel to perform certain routine tasks	Enables staff to redirect energy and audit focus on higher risk areas
Tax related
Earnings repatriation	Evaluated new rules and developed various scenarios relating to the tax-free repatriation of earnings	Narrowed focus on structuring and other issues so as to provide note disclosure and tax planning ideas
Carryback claim analysis	Review and testing of tax analysis model to determine that the results were reliable	Defensible position in IRS audit related to carryback claims which would provide Company with acceptable potential IRS assessment
R&D tax credit analysis	Identification of expenditures and processes which qualify for the R&D tax credit	Identification of carryforward tax credits to reduce future cash tax outlays
Japanese customs duties analysis	Analysis and development of strategies to provide reductions in the amount of duties paid by the Company	Potential cost savings to the Company

AUDIT SCOPE

General Approach and Audit Scope Definitions

General Approach

The general scope of our audit work will be such that we can express an opinion on the consolidated financial statements of Chiquita Brands International, Inc. and subsidiaries for the year ended December 31, 1997. Our audit will be performed in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and, accordingly, will include such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we consider necessary in the circumstances. In addition, we are required to report separately on the financial statements of certain subsidiaries. The scope of work to be performed at the units visited will be either:

- Full
- Statutory
- Limited
- Review
- High-level review
- Desk review

In addition, the financial statements of all units at which work is not performed as well as general office and consolidating entries will be reviewed at the respective corporate or group headquarters. If findings require, such reviews will be supplemented with inquiries and/or actual visits to the unit.

Definitions and descriptions of each scope level are presented below. A local Audit Strategies Memorandum is to be prepared and submitted to Ernst & Young-Cincinnati for all units subject to full scope or statutory audit requirements, setting forth the procedures to be performed within the assigned scope for each significant audit area along with a detail of budgeted hours for each. These plans will be reviewed and approved by Ernst & Young-Cincinnati prior to commencement of significant audit work. The scope of the procedures selected for each unit is a function of the following factors:

- Materiality of the unit's financial statements, with respect to both dollar amounts and sensitivity, to the consolidated financial statements of the Company;
- Scope and results of the firm's work, as well as the internal audit work, in previous years (including consideration of our cycling approach) and the extent and nature of internal audit activity during the year ending December 31, 1997;
- Known or anticipated accounting and auditing problems;
- Requirements for separate financial statements;
- Requests by Chiquita Brands International, Inc. management.

CBI-V1-001-005746

Audit Scope Definitions

Full

A full scope audit will entail an audit of significant accounts in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards in the United States. The work performed would be sufficient, with certain minimal additional procedures, to enable us to form an opinion on the financial statements of a unit if such statements were required. Briefly, the audit steps involved will be a review, documentation and evaluation of internal control systems; sample testing and evaluation of transactions occurring in these systems; observation or test counting of inventories (including observation of fixed assets if the control of fixed assets is determined to be ineffective); independent confirmation of bank balances, investments, loan and accounts receivable balances; and audit of significant balance sheet and income and expense accounts.

Statutory

A statutory audit is similar to a full scope audit in that the audit will be performed in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards in the United States. However, the end product of a statutory audit usually will be certified financial statements prepared in accordance with either local or U.S. generally accepted accounting principles, as required. Therefore, in all statutory audits, the scope of the audit will be sufficient to permit the issuance of an opinion on the specific financial report required by the local statute, agreement, etc.

Limited

A limited scope audit will entail an audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards in the United States only of certain selected significant and/or sensitive balance sheet and/or income or expense accounts. Generally, this will include review, testing, and evaluation of the critical internal control systems. The extent of work and hours required will vary considerably and will depend upon the circumstances at each unit.

Review

A review is intended to accomplish a survey of the financial statements and supporting schedules of the unit which, when supplemented by discussions with management officials and a limited comparison of records, will provide information concerning the financial position and operations of the unit, without the performance of detailed tests of the records. Again, the extent of work and hours required will vary considerably and will depend upon the circumstances at each unit. A sample of the steps involved in a review include the following:

- Review (but not detailed testing) of the critical/sensitive internal control systems.
- Follow-up on status of problems identified and/or recommendations made in prior years as well as any significant comments contained in internal audit reports.
- Comparison of balance sheet and income statement to budgeted and to prior year results. Review and, where appropriate, perform limited testing of client analyses supporting critical account balances. Discussion of significant fluctuations and/or unusual items with management and accounting personnel.

1CHQ6-001184

- Review of the financial impact of current business conditions on the unit.
- Review of the propriety of the accounting principles of the unit and of the effect of any changes in the application of accounting principles from the prior year.
- Where applicable, review of company-prepared workpapers related to the most recent physical inventory and reconciliation of the inventory balances to the general ledger. Determination that the method of pricing inventory is consistent with the prior period and in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. Review of inventory turnover computations or other relevant data for indications of excessive or obsolete stock.
- Review of year-end financial reporting package for completeness and reasonableness.

High-level review

A high-level review is similar to a review but less detailed. It generally would contemplate a site visit to the location for purposes of identifying through discussions with local management and limited inspection of accounting records any matters of accounting, auditing or reporting significance to the consolidated financial statements as it relates to the particular business unit in question.

Desk Review

A desk review is similar to a high-level review but somewhat less detailed. Performance of a desk review generally does not require a site visit to the location. In the case of more significant operating units, this scope of review in connection with the year end audit would generally not be employed unless on-site audit work had been performed earlier in the year. The procedures involved in a desk review would typically include:

- Critical review of local financial statements, corporate financial reporting package and certain key detailed support schedules and analyses.
- Discussions with management concerning any significant balance sheet and income statement fluctuations from the prior year.
- Follow-up on status of problems identified and/or recommendations made in prior years as well as any significant comments included in internal audit reports.
- Review of the financial impact of current business conditions on the unit.
- Discussions with management regarding any changes in accounting principles from the prior year.

CHIQUITA BRANDS INTERNATIONAL, INC.

DOMESTIC AND LATIN AMERICA NOTES

- (1) Reflects that portion of partner time allocable to Chiquita Brands. Such time relates to involvement in the audits of the various Chiquita Brands entities, including related visits; consultations with management regarding matters of significance, including those noted during these visits; integration of the internal audit function into the audit process; involvement in audit, accounting and reporting issues associated with numerous compliance reporting requirements of Chiquita Brands, Inc. and its subsidiaries and with the separate statutory audits of numerous Chiquita Brands entities.

In addition to the partner time allocated to Chiquita Brands Corporate, this caption also includes all Chiquita Brands senior manager and manager time (except for that time spent in other areas which is included in the individual entities) in the following audit areas: overall planning and coordination; review of local entity topside binders; consolidation and General Office entries (including bananas-in-transit, tropical severance, deferred crop costs, Colombian pension, claims, insurance coverage, intercompany account reconciliations/adjustments, income allocations for tax purposes); systems work (wire transfers, disbursements, consolidation, volumes tracking, payroll, etc.); Chiquita Brands Corporate ledger (including producer loans, accruals/reserves, domestic cash accounts); time for assisting in/coordinating the statutory audits of certain foreign entities.

- (2) Reflects use of/coordination with internal auditors.
- (3) The 1997 Budget amount reflects information systems audit work related to domestic and Latin American entities, including the performance of the general controls review at the Cincinnati data center and two tropical locations. (1996 Actual and Budget amounts reflect one tropical location.)
- (4) Relates to the various special purpose reports (OPIC borrowings and "936" financings, including the tax opinion required, a report for bonding purposes for the U.S. Coast Guard, as well as a report on separate CBCBV statements).
